Coil Center of Excellence

Our dedicated coil-manufacturing facility and team now have more capabilities than ever, and our personalized services can help you save time, effort and money. Our coils are manufactured in the U.S., and backed by the largest distribution network in the U.S., so we can get you the replacement coils you need, quickly and economically.

Trane[®] SureFit[™] Coils offer you:

Same-day quotes, rapid delivery

Our quick-quote system allows us to offer you same-day quotes. Plus with our knowledgeable engineers and network of Trane locations—the largest in the industry—we're prepared to rush the delivery of your Trane SureFit coils. In fact, we can ship most coils in three days or less from the time your order is placed even if they're custom-built to your precise specifications.

Coils for any equipment, any brand

Our desire to serve you is fueled by innovations in products and services—such as engineering and building coils to replace those in our competitors' products. Regardless of your equipment's manufacturer, you can count on Trane to provide replacement coils that will improve efficiency, reduce energy usage and get your system up and running fast.

Competitively priced coils

Quality coils don't have to break your budget. Our ability to quickly and cost-effectively make any coil for any equipment is supported by flexible manufacturing processes, a large supply base and the industry's largest distribution network. This well-organized, efficient structure helps control costs so that Trane can keep prices competitive.

High-quality coils and fast delivery for reliable replacement—regardless of your equipment's manufacturer

High-quality coils

Our engineering expertise and attention to detail in designing, manufacturing and testing SureFit replacement coils help ensure trouble-free operation. The result is peace of mind: No matter what brand your equipment is, you'll know that the coils you order will fit and perform as promised for years to come.

100 years of experience

With a century of industry leadership in coil engineering and manufacturing, Trane is prepared to help guide you through the entire coil selection process. Your knowledgeable Trane representative has the expertise to quickly get coils that not only fit your particular application, but also provide the performance and reliability you require.
